New Rifle Range Selected at Cul Banks West of Town

A rifle range has been selected by the army officials in connection with the new armaments to be erected here when materials become available. The new range is located a mile west and a half a mile or so north of town and just east of the dump grounds in the hollow best known as the "cut banks." The site is almost surrounded by hills and is an ideal one, and must be seen to be fully appreciated. The range will be flat straight north for a distance of 600 yards and there is a fifty foot high hill back of where the pit will be, nicely high enough to stop stray bullets. Beyond that will be an area known as the danger zone. In the area from the target and where the various butts will be are some rough spots several feet high, these will be levelled off. A culvert will be laid in leading from the road to the range. This road will run over a flat between two hills to about the middle of the danger distance of a couple of hundred yards. Here will be an ideal place to park cars.

It is also proposed to set up a trap for shooting clay pigeons at the 600 yard range.

New Savings Bond Went on Sale Tuesday Morning

The limit for purchases of the new Canada Savings Bond by individuals has been set at $2,000. Purchases of the new security may only be made in the name of individuals and not in the name of firms, institutions or in trust for second parties.

The decision to place a limit on purchases by individuals bears out a statement made by the minister of finance to the House of Commons last June. Mr. Haley pointed out at that time that since the terms of the Canada Savings Bond would be more favorable than those available for comparable securities at the time of issue, it would be necessary to restrict individual holdings. If no limit were set, the new security would naturally be purchased in volume by institutions and larger investors for whom it is not intended. The Canada Savings Bond is designed solely as a personal savings facility.

All Canada Savings Bonds will be registered as to principal. This registration is made necessary by the need to control holdings, but will offer protection to holders against loss of their investment at the same time. Further, bonds may be registered in the name of minors as well as adults. It is probable that many purchases will be registered in the names of children and others by those who wish to take added advantage of the investment opportunity but who would otherwise be restricted to the $2,000 limit on purchases in their own name.

An unusual feature of the new bonds is the privilege of earning them into cash at any time for full face value, plus interest at any bank. While the interest rate is better than is than is available for other forms of saving and more favorable than that of comparable investments at the time of issue.

Look Over Your Heating Equipment And Prevent Fires

Next week, October 6-12 is fire prevention week. If ever there was need for a Fire Prevention Week, that necessity has been amply demonstrated by the trend of fire losses, in both life and property, which have occurred during the past year. It is quite true that fire prevention is a year round job, but this season of observing a special week to impress upon the public the necessity of preventing fires has been well developed over a period of twenty-five years and has become a national tradition.

And well it might be! The loss of $21 lives and $42,000,000 property damage in 1945 should stir every Canadian out of a complacency which

WATERWORKS PLEBISCITE MONDAY, OCTOBER 28

Here are some of the reasons why ALL ratepayers should vote YES on October 28th:

1. It will cost more than $1,735.00 (the amount of the annual payment on the new system to carry on repairing the old system.
2. Fire insurance will go up if the waterworks are abandoned.
3. When the IRRIGATION-SYSTEM, now 16 years old, is ready for replacement the new water system can be used for irrigation and the whole west end will benefit—providing their irrigation pipes should be maintained which should be done.
4. THE FIRE PROTECTION and WATER SUPPLY afforded all publicly owned properties, such as the school, Community Hall, Town Office, curling rink, skating rink, etc., benefits all ratepayers giving protection to lives and property.

5. If Gleichen is going to remain a progressive and modern town, water and sewer must be maintained and developed.

Even if a ratepayer is not on the waterline, he should vote yes for the sake of the town as a whole.

IT'S YOUR TOWN! And it will cost you very, very little, perhaps nothing at all—it may even bring in a considerable surplus as the operating costs on a new system are negligible and many new users will be supplied bringing additional revenue.

LET'S NOT GO BACKWARDS! But GO FORWARDS!

VOTE: YES October 28th.

W. SUTERMEISTER, Mayor.

Illustrates our national economy. Appeals to individuals to prevent fire on a strictly abstract basis seem to have had little effect. More often it is only when a person's pocket book is affected that he begins to sit up and take notice. It is obvious therefore that, unless the present trend of increasing fire losses can be checked, fire insurance companies will have no other alternative than to increase their rates. In 1921 the average rate per $100 of property against fire was $11.14, and in 1944, it was 76 cents. In view of rising fire losses, it is a question how long the insurance companies will be able to operate successfully on these low rates. And there is no doubt but that an increase in rates will have an effect on the cost of living, for modern commerce has been developed upon the ability to insure against unforeseen losses and the cost of insurance enters into everything we buy.

Every body will therefore be wise if he takes into consideration the fact that he will eventually have to pay for his own carelessness. He should resolve that the responsibility for such an increase in the cost of living shall not be his. He can do this by being careful about the disposition of his cigarette and matches by seeing that the heating equipment in his home is in safe condition by not using flammable liquids like kerosene to start in kitchen fire or gasoline for clean or other use in the home. By these and many other means, he can avoid the dangers of fire not only to himself and his own family, but also to his neighbor and his neighbor's family. Aged by keeping in mind care, prevention and, forethought, not only during fire prevention week but every week during the year, he can make of his country, Canada, a place of safety rather than a country where stark ruins lie and gaunt chimneys rise over every hand to accuse him of his carelessness.

Wise people go to a recognized authority when they go to the best in advice and service, and it is suggested that this is never more prudent than in dealing with health. Well-meaning but unqualified persons have caused a lot of trouble and suffering; it is pointed out. It is urged that a professional medical man be consulted on all matters concerning physical well-being.

Democracy's Crucibles (2)

(BY WALTER GIEBER.)

The art of democracy is the art of living cooperatively as a community of the whole nation, or people.

Democracy is not merely a political formula, or system for the governing of a nation nor is it a finely spun theory or creed of what ought to be: It is the struggle of the human spirit seeking fuller recognition of its own worth as a person. To be a true democracy it must, therefore put emphasis on the value of every individual in the community as a whole, and must seek to serve each and all alike. It can have no finer motto than: "All for one and one for all."

One of the deadliest enemies of democracy is sectionalism. It is also the enemy of much human freedom. Sectional Interest Groups tend to shut out of their narrow, selfish considerations all others who are not members of their special group. By so doing these sectional interest groups, quite unintentionally of course, disregard, endanger or even destroy the welfare of a large section of people within the democratic group, and thus undermine the very foundations of the democracy which has given them a right to exist.

Democracy must unite all. Sectionalism divides and divisions yield strife.

The real basis of democracy lies in the spiritual life and moral convictions of a people. Spiritually it exalts the value of human personality and seeks to unite all members in a mutual effort put forth in the interests of the well-being of the whole. While morally it asserts the principle of "equal rights to all," thus minimizing, or overcoming man's innate tendency to lord it over his fellow men."

Democracy first found its roots in

U.F.W.A. Meeting

Mrs. Etheridge was hostess to the ladies of the U.F.W.A. on Thursday afternoon September 26th, when there were 18 members and four visitors present. The roll call was answered by Problems in the Home.

The minutes were read and approved. Matters pertaining to the dance to be held on October 15th were attended to. The committee appointed to look after the lunch consisted of Mrs. Umphrie, Mrs. Kofford, Mrs. B. Burne and Mrs. H. Burne. Books of tickets for the quilt were given to members. The quilt will be quilted at the home of Mrs. McInnes and will be put on display soon. All members who can quilt are invited to attend. Mr. N. McInnes will look after the tags for the dance. Members are asked to turn out and help decorate the hall. Current events were given. After a delicious lunch the meeting adjourned and will meet again on October 10th at the home of Mrs. R. Cunningham.

Bert Field is in the Col. Belcher Hospital, Calgary, recovering from an operation for gallitis. The operation took place last week and reports are he is doing well.

For some days Engineer Lester has been testing the well at the old Woods' dairy barn site. Pipes were laid from the well site to the reservoir at the water tower and an electric pump set up at the well and has been pumping day and night. The well had been cleaned out prior to being put on the test.

The home of Mrs. T. Robinson was the scene of a large gathering of Gleichen ladies honoring Mrs. Wm. Service, who with her family is moving to Red Deer to reside in the future. The guest of honor was presented with a gift on behalf of her many friends. Mrs. Service has lived in Gleichen and the surrounding district for many years and with her husband and family will be much missed. Mr. Service has a position with the permanent army and has been in Red Deer for several years.

A Citizenship Week

M. L. MACKINNON CO. LTD. WINNIPEG

FOR MANY YEARS, interested groups throughout Canada have advocated that the public, and especially new citizens, should be made more fully aware of the privileges and responsibilities of citizenship, and that when people from other lands take out naturalization papers, more effort should be made to impress upon them the significance of their new status. With the coming into effect of Canada's new Citizenship Act, on the first of next January, a new procedure is to be followed in connection with the formal granting of citizenship, and it will no doubt be regarded with great interest in all parts of the Dominion. At that time, a nation-wide Citizenship Week is to be observed from January 8 to 11, and during that week many who have fulfilled the necessary qualifications will receive their new status.

A Pattern For Such Occasions

A special committee is now arranging for the observance of Citizenship Week and it is expected that there will be regional as well as national programs designed to impress both old and new citizens with the meaning and value of this important step. One feature of the observance will be a large and colorful ceremony at the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, where a group of persons representing all parts of Canada, who have completed the necessary qualifications will become citizens of Canada. Similar gatherings will take place in other parts of the country, and it is expected that the procedure to be followed, which may include speeches by government officials and other dignitaries, appropriate music, and the presence of relatives and friends of the new citizens, will set a pattern for future ceremonies of this kind.

People Tend To Forget Duties

All Canadians, whether they are such by birth or by naturalization, would do well to give more thought to the meaning of citizenship. In contrast to the intense nationalism and the almost complete submergence of the individual to the state, which we have seen in so many countries in our time, the lack of interference here in political and religious beliefs and other matters essential to the freedom of the individual, tends in many cases to cause people to forget the duties of citizenship. It is apparent that there is no security in the world today, and that if we are to keep the things we value, we must take care to preserve them. Canada remains one of the few places in the world not torn by war, famine, and bitter political strife, and what has happened in other countries could happen here. "Citizenship Week" will no doubt arouse much interest, but Canadians would do well to carry this interest into all

GIRL GUIDES

Commissioner Speaks Of Opportunities For Youth In Canada

CAUX, Switzerland. — Mrs. Gordon Conant, Girl Guide commissioner for Ontario, was one of the chief speakers at the weekend sessions of the European Assembly for Moral Re-armament at Caux, Switzerland. Mrs. Conant, who is attending the assembly on her way to the world conference of Girl Guide Associations, spoke of the opportunities before Canadian youth.

"Canada is a great country," she said, "but she has become the battlefield and tool of wrong forces. The time is urgent and youth is our strongest asset. I have dedicated my life to the youth of my country. I have dedicated it now in a different way. I go on to the world conference of Girl Guide Associations not only with a desire to help but with a passion for the ideology of Moral Re-armament."

Mrs. Conant pointed out how certain countries were trying to do away with the Scout and Guide movements. "The first law they want to eliminate," she said, "was I promise to do my duty to God and country. They want to substitute," she continued, "A Guide is noble for 'A Guide is pure in thought, word and deed.'"

Other speakers at the assembly, which has representative delegations from Canada, the United States, Europe, and the Far East, included George Simmons, British Labor M.P., and Commissioner of the treasury, and Pierre Cartier, president of the Federation of French Insurance Companies and former member of the Allied Control Commission in Germany.

Many, who do not belong to the Scouts organization, wonder why their handshakes are always with the left hand. To most Scouts, Cuba Girl Guides and Brownies it was always understood that it was because the left hand was closest to the heart.

However, Lord Rowallan gave the true explanation, one which was first known many years after it was first instituted. According to Lord Rowallan it was during a visit to Africa that Lord Baden Powell, former Chief Scout of the British Empire, met a chief of the Ashanti tribe. On stepping forward to greet the African chief Lord Baden Powell extended his right hand but the Ashanti chief extended his left, explaining as he did that "the bravest of the brave shake hands with their left hand as in order to do so they must throw away their greatest protection, their shields."

Experimental Station Notes.

At this time of the year we receive frequent inquiries as to the value of fall irrigation. Experiments conducted on the silt loam soils of the station for a period of 17 years gave almost as good results from fall irrigations as from early spring irrigations of alfalfa, pasture grass and land that was to be sown to grain or sugar beets.

Fall irrigation has two distinct advantages. It can be applied without interfering with the crop and it removes the necessity for irrigating early the next season when work is pressing. Also fall irrigation is an excellent way of storing water for next year's crop in dry areas where occasionally there is a run off from late September or October storms. There is the old year when a snow at this period melts rapidly and gives some run off. If this occurs, water can be directed over the land and can be stored in the soil for next year's crop. Those having irrigation reservoirs may wish, to partially empty them should the fall run off occur. The water taken from the reservoir can be stored in the soil by fall irrigation. It should be remembered that plants take out the water in the soil to the depth of four or five feet so that any water stored in the soil that depth can be used by the plants.

The one disadvantage of fall irrigating is that the soil may be more difficult to work in the spring than the season be wet. However, in one year of experience we have had so little trouble from this source that it has not been an important factor.

The practice followed at the station and by many successful irrigation farmers is to fall irrigate all the hay and pasture possible and if time permits to spread the water over the other lands.

power of the Church. Vital Christianities—free from state control and its tutelage cannot live side by side. They are diametrically opposed in their aims and purposes of individual rights. They are spiritual and agnostic to the utmost degree.

The greatest danger for our democratic freedom lies in the progressive weakening of the moral and spiritual bonds that have anchored our unity in the Christian conception of the common Fatherhood of God, and have made us a strong and prosperous people in the oceans which recognized all as members of the same family and children of the same Father God.

That these bonds are being weakened, and that this weakening has resulted in sectional interest groups clamoring for more power and economic advantages for themselves is becoming quite clear.

This arises from neglect of faith, which is a basic necessity for the existence of all democratic freedom. Sectionalism today has narrowed down the vision of life and has limited the obligations of the members to recognize only those of their particular group.

With this shrinking horizon of the obligations of the mortalities of life we are, or should be, increasingly aware of the danger of sectional strife. It is rapidly driving our whole economic structure towards the bankruptcy of life in the very day when our need for good is the greatest. There is a real danger that this strife is rapidly driving our whole economic structure towards the bankruptcy of life in the very day when our need for good is the greatest. There is a real danger that this strife is rapidly driving our whole economic structure towards the bankruptcy of life in the very day when our need for good is the greatest.

If that would happen, and the possibilities are great that it might, then we will already have crossed the narrow chasm that even now separates us from dictatorial rule.

Next week we shall deal with the moral implications and obligations of sectional interest groups in relation to democracy.

Questions

and

Answers

GENERAL

- Q What are Canada Savings Bonds?
A Canada Savings Bonds are the successor to Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. They are your country's promise to return your money to you at any time and to pay you interest at an attractive rate.
- Q Why are Canada Savings Bonds being offered?
A Because during the war, millions of Canadians learned the savings habit by buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. A recent survey showed 88% of them want to keep on saving by a similar plan.
- Q Is the Government selling Canada Savings Bonds just to raise money?
A No. Borrowing needs of the Government can be met by other types of loans. The main purpose of the Canada Savings Bonds is to provide Canadians with a convenient way to continue this kind of saving and investment in peacetime.
- Q Is there any limit to the amount of Canada Savings Bonds that one person may hold?
A Yes. There is a limit of $2,000 for each individual, but each member of a family may hold bonds up to the limit.
- Q What is the price of Canada Savings Bonds?
